ATTENDED BY: founders of hospitality businesses and their guests

We believe that founding and growing a business is an exceptional achievement. As success follows, so do layers of management. At every one of these inflexion points the founder gets further from the floor.

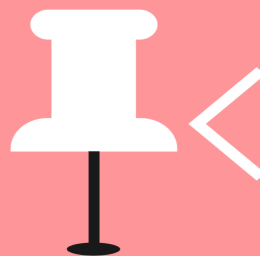

With this in mind, we run regular founders' breakfast events which cover a range of management subjects.

Hosted by Watershed, and led by specialist facilitators, the events are lively, informing and there's always plenty to take away and act on.

WHY TEAMS DON'T WORK
egos and relationships in thriving restaurant organisations

Friday 24th January
9am – 12.30pm
Sophie's Steakhouse - Soho

With Stephen Waters and John Bull, from Management Futures.

High performance is almost always a collective endeavour, which means that the quality of interactions between people is as important as the performance of individuals.

We all talk about the importance of teamwork; we all spend a lot of time working as part of teams; and yet genuine high performing behaviour in teams is quite rare. For many restaurants and bars it is one of the most untapped opportunities for improvement.
